Today we created a chemical reaction in our lava lamps. Thinking about what we observed, can you think of an example of another chemical reaction that you’ve seen?

You also saw two chemicals that when mixed together did not create a chemical reaction (water and oil). Can you think of another example of two chemicals that do not mix together?